MORE TEAM WORK IS NEEDED

Have you ever noticed a team of and cash markets for live stock here or eight miles, trying to pull in Dothan will be one of the opportunities out of a hole or bog? First tunities for the farmer. At present he and then the other makes a hog is selling for $3.75 per hundred, the load moves forward a lit-dred pounds—live weight,—about 6, but very little progress is made. 18 cents a pound for green pork.

At watch them when they all pull. The Chamber of Commerce is getting something doing then. All working to get the farmers organized together and ahead they go.

Dothan needs more of just this from its members. It seems hard to find of pull together spirit right get the committees together. We

LENKEIT SAYS GERMANY WILL WHIP ALLIES

B. A. Lenkeit, Native of Berlin, Germany, Who Served Three Years in United States Army. Tells of Requirements of German Government.

By Chester Vickery.

The war in Europe will result in final victory for Germany. In the opinion of B. A. Lenkeit, a local painter, and native of Berlin, Germany, who left the Fatherland when sixteen years old.

Lenkeit does not minimize the importance of the nations and armies pitted against his native land, but he believes the apparent superiority of the German army, their equipment, the resourcefulness and tenacity of his people, cannot result but in glorious victory for the home land.

To Save Germany.

Germany is fighting to protect herself from annihilation by her enemies, according to Lenkeit, who also admits that there are many and complex contributing causes for the war. That the desire for a republican form of government, entertained by the fighting men of all armies, and likewise a religious significance to the titanic struggle, is admitted by Lenkeit.

Germany's Army.

When one realizes the requirements of the German government, it is easy to understand why the army of that nation, aside from any feeling of partisan sympathy, has attracted the admiration of the neutral world.

Lenkeit tells a good story, which he uses in illustrating the preparedness of his native country for war at any time. He says he served three years in the United States army, second battalion of engineers and that he was located in Cuba. During that period, he says he never had target practice; that only on a few occasions did he see the cartridges used in the guns. In contrast to this, he says the German army, even in peaceful times, has target practice nearly every day, continuous heavy marching and drill exercises, thus keeping the men in the pink of physical condition all the time.

Strict Requirements.

In the Fatherland, according to Lenkeit, a male German is compelled to go to school when he reaches the age of 6, and must remain in school until the age of 14. If the child misses an hour out of school during this time, his parents are fined. If he misses a day, a policeman is sent to his home to take him to school. Of course there are exceptions in cases of illness, etc.

All Must Work.

From the ages of 14 to 18, the German boy, rich or poor, is compelled by the government to learn a trade, even if he is so wealthy that he need never work. After this period it is the custom, although it is not compulsory, for young men to be sent traveling to many cities for the educational advantages thus afforded.

When the German boy reaches the age of 20 he is compelled by the government to serve from two to four years in the army, this mandatory being rigidly enforced among the

CITY TO FORCE ST. CROSSINGS

Fight Started Against Coast Line For Opening of Foster and College Streets.

Condemnation proceedings have been instituted by the city against the Atlantic Coast Line railroad company to force the opening of Foster and College streets across the tracks of the railroad company in the northern part of the city.

The proper papers it is said have been filed in the circuit court, and the next step taken will be the appointment of a jury of three men to appraise the value of the property of the railroad company, which the city purposes to clear out of the way for the street crossings.

It is believed that when the three men are appointed, that some steps will be taken by the lawyers for the railroad company, but so far nothing has been done by the opposite side in the circuit court.

In view of the fact that there are but two street crossings over the railroad tracks in the northern part of town, it is believed that traffic and trade with the territory north of Dothan has been to an extent handicapped in past years. The city has endeavored to get the Coast Line to permit the crossings, but apparently to no avail. The city now purposed to carry the matter into the courts. It is understood the railroad will fight the case.

GOOD BILL AT AIRDOME.

The Gibson Trio, at the Airdome Theatre last night, received three curtain calls from the audience. Roy Roker, rag time singer, made a decided hit. Alvin and Rialto, acrobats, were well received by the audience. The entire bill was good.

poor and rich.

The "Landstrum." The German army is very rigid in its physical requirements. For instance should a man report for service at the age of 20, and the examination show some physical defect on fingers, arm or any part of the body, the man is required to come back and report for duty once a year for three years. If the defect has not been corrected during this period, the applicant is committed to what is known as the "Landstrum," so he has to fight anyway should his country ever need his services.

Lenkeit says about one-fourth of the population of the United States are Germans are of German descent.

The Chamber of Commerce of Dothan has been invited to send a delegation to Montgomery, October 15, to discuss, with representatives of other Alabama commercial organizations, the subjects of insurance and taxation, and the invitation has been accepted. Secretary N. T. Cobb, of the local organization, believes the general meeting will be of great benefit to the State.

Following is the correspondence:

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22, 1914.

Chamber of Commerce,

Dothan, Ala.

Gentlemen:

The Chamber of Commerce of Montgomery, by resolution, has decided to call a State convention in Montgomery for October 15th.

Our committee on Insurance and Taxation hold to the view that we should not undertake to assemble the citizens of Alabama to discuss this subject without the approval of the commercial organizations of Mobile, Birmingham, Selma, Huntsville, Dothan and Tuscaloosa.

It is proposed that this convention have a committee to discuss the working out a plan of tax revision to be submitted to the Revenue Commission before the assembling of the Legislature in January. We believe that such committee would be able to present a workable plan that would remedy the present conditions in Alabama.

The purpose of this letter is to ask your organization to advise us at once if you approve of holding this convention, and if so, authorize me to use the name of your organization in issuing the call. Please bear in mind in approving the call, you will be expected to send a delegation of your representative members to Montgomery to attend the meeting.

An early answer is requested.

PARIS IS IN GLOOM OVER FRENCH DEFEAT

Paris, Aug. 25.—Burning villages and heaps of dead lying around Charleroi show the ferocity with which the allies opposed the German war they would retrace emboldened that finally drove them back to French soil.

For ten hours the tide of battle ebbed and flowed around Charleroi which was taken and retaken six times before the allies finally retired.

Part of the city was wrecked and the villages of Machelen, Monceau, Chatelet and Landries were burned.

An extraordinary council of war was held this morning and Paris is in gloom today following the announcement of defeat by the government.

The war office announced it is hiding nothing and continues to tell the people the truth about the war.

GOODS CLAIMED BY HIGHALS

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The goods found and seized in Mack Shivers' store a few weeks ago, which were said to have been part of the stock of The Shop of Quality, a bankrupt concern of Hartford, has been sold by Henry Nichols with Receiver C. C. Hughes.

In his claim it is said that Nichols points out that nobody but himself has a right to the goods, and that they belong to him. It is reported that Nichols was in the vicinity of Mack Shivers' store the night the goods were seized.

Much interest is centered in the outcome of the case, which will probably come up before the Referee in Bankruptcy for decision. A date for the hearing will probably be set soon.

Sheriff Prevented From Selling Goods

On the authority of a restraining order issued by Judge W. L. Gibbs, acting for Judge Henry D. Clayton of the United States Court for the Middle District of Alabama, and arrived by Deputy Clerk J. H. Dugger, Jr., on Sheriff B. O. Hay yesterday, the sheriff was enjoined from selling the Warlick stock of goods.

A few months ago attachment proceedings were initiated against Warlick, who operated or was connected with a merchandise store on East Main street. The stock was to have been sold under the direction of the Sheriff Monday, but was held up owing to the restraining order.

The restraining order was to prevent the stock of goods of Warlick Bros. Company from being sold. It is understood this same concern owned several stores in Georgia, and that litigation is also on in that state.
